Newburgh Baby Has Closed Esophagus

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—A baby girl with a closed esophagus took nourishment through a tube at St. Luke's Hospital here today and awaited a name.

The child, born February 5, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sovick of Beacon.

In the same hospital, a year ago last Sunday, another child, similarly handicapped, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Linsig of Marlborough.

That baby, Bobby Linsig, now is a healthy youngster weighing 22 pounds.

Dr. James Donovan, who inserted the tube in Bobby's stomach through which the still takes nourishment, performed a similar operation last

For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste —“A LIGHT SMOKE.”

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

1 Killed, Several Hurt In Clash of Policemen And Leftists in Spain

Madrid, Feb. 18 (AP).—Another man was killed and several wounded today in a clash between politically victorious Leftists and police in Zaragoza, as the rest of Spain quieted down after Sunday's parliamentary elections.

Ten have died and more than a score have been seriously wounded as a result of the election.

With the returns still to be reported for only 30 of the 473 seats in the cortes, or parliament, the radicals were only 9 seats short of a complete majority. They held 225 seats and the Rightists held 164 and the parties of the center held 47.

Zaragoza police were unable to control a demonstration of syndicalists, so last night the authorities declared a "state of war" for the city and called in army troops to help keep order.

The syndicalists immediately retaliated with a general strike and mass meetings.

Soldiers charged into the crowds and in the skirmish one man was killed.

Authoritative sources said former Premier Manuel Azana, whose leftist government was the first under the present Spanish republic, would probably form a left-republican ministry before the end of the week to replace that of Premier Niceto Alcalá Zamora intended to resign, but that the government was counseling him to wait complete returns from the parliamentary elections.

Semi-official returns indicated the left coalition of Socialists, Republicans, Communists and Syndicalists defeated the Union of the Government Center and the right, taking from 260 to 270 of the 473 seats in the new parliament.

Coupled with the leftist appeal for peace, the government's state of alarm put police and military forces on guard against any recurrence of the election disorders in which nine persons died and 19 were injured seriously.

Prisoners at the San Miguel De Los Reyes jail in Valencia, who launched an uprising yesterday during which one guard was killed and three wounded, did not surrender immediately, holding three prison employees as hostages.

All prisons, holding nearly 30,000 leftists in connection with the revolt of October, 1934, were guarded and the nation generally became tranquil.

The centers of the most serious disorders, in the provinces of Alicante, Zaragoza and Valencia, were under martial law. In Alicante, extremists forced a way into the Fontilles Leprosarium last night and liberated the patients. A round-up of the lepers was started promptly.

Zaragoza workers called a general strike, closing theatres and interrupting communications.

Former Premier Azana was quoted as saying he had "no objections" to being named to the post again, and would attempt to complete formation of his cabinet as "quickly as possible."

Premier Portella offered to resign yesterday. In the face of the apparent leftist victory, informed sources said, but was persuaded to remain in office until the official returns were available.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Planned

Plans are in the making for a Junior Chamber of Commerce here to work in collaboration with the Mayor's Industrial Committee for the advancement of Kingston industrially and commercially, a Freeman reporter learned today.

At least 30 of Kingston's young business men, and those in their employ, have signed in the Junior Chamber. A meeting will be held presently to discuss plans openly, and an office will be established.

All young men interested in joining can obtain particulars from Harry LaMothe. His phone is 3470. Mr. LaMothe is a resident of Schryver Court. He has lived in Kingston several years, engaging in work that enables him to know many angles helpful in establishing a commerce bureau.

Through his efforts the job of organizing a Junior Chamber of Commerce has been started on Chambers from the National Junior Chamber of Commerce with which Mr. LaMothe communicated stating Kingston's position in regard to industry. The Kingston association is to affiliate with the national body and also with the Junior Chamber of Commerce of New York state.

So enthused was the state organization when Mr. LaMothe wrote to it regarding his plans that he received an answer promising the presence of John J. Gleason, an official of the organization, to address the organization meeting.

Junior Chambers of Commerce are doing good work all over the country, and it is presumed by Mr. LaMothe and a number of others that one should help a lot in Kingston. It is understood Mayor C. J. Heiselman is heartily behind the movement and intends to endorse it publicly when he returns from his vacation in the south.

Vigilantes Held For Bank Robbery

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—One member of a suburban St. Charles vigilante organization formed to combat bank robbers, a special policeman and four other men were in custody of Department of Justice agents today as members of a robber gang that obtained $15,300 in a raid on the St. Charles National Bank last month.

Daniel M. Ladd, head of the Chicago office of the department, announced the case was solved, except for the recovery of the loot. He said the six men would be arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner E. K. Walker, on charge of robbing a national bank.

Ladd gave the names of those under arrest as Percy R. Rehm, 41, St. Charles florist and vigilante, John Gordon, 35, special watchman; Fred Hansen, 37, of St. Charles; Samuel Bongiorno, 39; Leo Friedman, 23, and Philip Dimentza, 31, all of Chicago. The robbers entered the bank with a key before daylight last January 31 and bound officers and employees as they reported for work. Time lock, set for 8 a. m., enabled them to open the vaults.

Mixed Weather With Rain, Hail and Snow

Kingston received an assorted mixture of spring and winter weather last night and today. It started raining here about mid-afternoon yesterday and rain fell throughout the night and early morning when about 5 o'clock the rain changed to snow and for about 20 minutes the storm that broke gave every indication of turning into another blizzard until the temperature began rising and the snow changed to hail and then to rain.

As a result of the heavy fall of rain yesterday and last night the streets were a mass of slush this morning, and a number of automobiles became fast, and it was necessary to use shovels in the slush to free them. So deep was the slush in some of the streets that automobiles were reported stuck in various sections of the city.

When the snow and hail broke over the city later this morning it froze and the streets became a glare of ice, and auto drivers proceeded cautiously. The Board of Public Works had the sanding machine out sanding down the hills.

Even the old inhabitants have to stop and think when asked how many years had elapsed when such a fall of snow had been seen here. On the side streets where the snow has not been removed the gutters are banked high with snow and pedestrians are unable to look over the banks into the street. The huge piles of snow are caused by the drifting that followed the blizzard of January 19, and added to the drifts is the snow shored off the roads by the snowplows and the snow thrown off the walks by housekeepers.

As a result pedestrians using the sidewalks walk between two high banks of snow. As the rain fell last night and the snow melted it formed pools of water on the sidewalks as there was no place for the water to run off the walks. This made walking very hazardous and wet feet were a common occurrence.

Teacher in Grave Condition, Loses Eye

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Having lost her right eye and threatened with loss of the left, Miss Ruth Maynard of the Hastings Junior High School faculty remained in grave condition today at Dobbs Ferry Hospital, to which she was rushed yesterday after a charge of buckshot had accidentally been fired into her face at short range.

Frank Will, 15, who was adjusting a 70-year-old muzzle-loading shotgun when it accidentally discharged in his home in Mount Hope Boulevard, was doleful in the custody of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Will, pending a hearing before Children's Court Judge George W. Smyth. No date for the hearing has been set.

Dr. Oscar J. Mink, Hastings school physician, announced today that Miss Maynard, 44, has lost the sight of her right eye and may suffer total blindness. Although her skull may have been fractured by the concentrated blast of the shot, he said, she remained conscious. She was visited at the hospital last night by a brother and sister, who had been summoned from their Dexter, N. Y., home.

Miss Maynard issued a bedside statement, absolving the Will boy of blame for the accident, which occurred as she sat 12 feet from him in the home of his parents, where she was a boarder. Frank permitted the hammer to snap on a percussion cap of the Civil War weapon while adjusting the gun for use Thursday night in a performance of Treasure Island at the high school.

Governor's Budget Goes to the Assembly For Its Major Test

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Approved in the Senate by a strict party vote, Governor Herbert H. Lehman's $308,911,831 budget rode into the Republican Assembly today faced with prospects of further stinging criticism and proposals for reductions varying from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Amid a bitter Republican assault, the document was jammed through the Democratic Senate last night by a vote of 28 to 21, along with a measure appropriating $20,000,000 from the proceeds of a previously authorized bond issue for construction of new state buildings.

Authorization was also given, in separate bills, to appropriations of $5,018,705.44 for the Legislature and Judiciary and $10,000,000 from current revenues for unemployment relief. Both sums are included in the $308,911,831 total, but require additional legislative approval.

The rate in the Assembly of the major document, making appropriations for support of state government, is uncertain.

For weeks, the Republican majority has been closely studying the program in the hope of making reductions of at least $16,000,000 as to enable it to seek repeal of one cent of the two cents a gallon gasoline tax.

While the budget program was being passed, the Senate tax committee reported favorably without amendment on the governor's tax agenda for the coming year, proposing continuation of all existing taxes without either new or increased imposts.

This included the proposal for continuation of the two cents a gallon emergency gasoline tax.

Like the budget, this program is likely to gain swift approval in the Senate and face stiff opposition in the other house.

Republican Senate Leader George R. Fearon took occasion, during debate on the appropriation program, to criticize the governor for "retrogressive" of the budget.

Senator Fearon said that the deficit as of next June 30 "will be nearer $80,000,000" than the governor's estimate of $57,000,000.

"And what, in the face of those figures, do you think the governor's estimate of a surplus of $1,322,728 on June 30, 1937, means?" he asked.

"If he gets enough revenue to meet this year's budget of $308,911,831 he will be lucky—let alone wiping out any deficit."

EFFECTS OF TOWNSEND PLAN.

The National Industrial Conference Board, in its analysis of the Townsend plan, seems to have done an unusually thorough job. This non-partisan institution, manned by economic experts and having presumably no row of its own to hoe, is highly respected and probably as capable of making a disinterested report as any organization in the country. Its conclusions therefore deserve reading by both friends and critics of this remarkable scheme. The Conference Board has considered the plan from the standpoint of "national welfare." Here is a summary of its verdict, in its own words:

The Townsend plan would transfer twenty billion dollars or more of depreciated money to a fraction of the population and reduce the real income and the standard of living of the nation as a whole.

The Board's study points out that the additional taxes required to be raised and transferred to pensioners amount to nearly half the total national income; eight times as much as all dividends; more than half of all wages and salaries; more than three times the gross cash income of all farms; and more than twice the income of all persons in business for themselves at the present time.

These taxes cannot be paid out of the net profits of earnings of business concerns and farmers, or out of the interest, dividends, and rents of investors and property owners. They must be passed on, wherever possible, to consumers in higher prices of goods and services, and their burden will fall with drastic inequity upon different types of business and groups of the population.

The application of the 2 per cent gross transaction tax, the Board's study shows, must result in suspension and bankruptcy of individual business concerns; elimination of many lines of business; reduced production and trade; increased unemployment; impoverishment of farmers, workers, and of persons and institutions depending on fixed incomes; partial destruction of the value of all savings, insurance, and investments; increased labor conflicts and class strife; and general paralysis of production, trade and finance.

INNARDS FROM AFRICA.

Aristotle, the ancient Greek scientist, is said to have sent expeditions to distant lands, financed by Alexander the Great, to bring back scientific knowledge of many kinds. But probably the world has never seen any such quest more remarkable than the expedition of Dr. George W. Cline, a distinguished American surgeon and author, who has just returned from Africa. His trophies consist of the brains, thyroid glands and other vital organs of some 200 wild animals, including lions, elephants, apes and other beasts, birds and reptiles.

Dr. Cline is interested in physiological "power plants." He wants to examine the vital organs of wild animals in their natural environment because they live a more intense life than tame animals, and have greater and more sudden demands upon their energy, and may therefore be expected to have a more effective equipment. He will carefully analyze all these organs, which have their counterparts in the human body, and expects to discover secrets of nature's "energy system" that will be useful for mankind. The "innards" should make an interesting book, when the scientist wishes his laboratory work on them.

OIL FOR ITALY.

The League powers, having banned the shipment of what are ordinarily termed "munitions" to Italy for her African war, are hesitating and stalling about petroleum. The nations dominating the League, chiefly Britain and France, seem unable to make up their minds. They want to get Mussolini's war stopped, but do not want to get him mortally offended against them, and possibly, too, are reluctant to establish a precedent that might later be used against themselves.

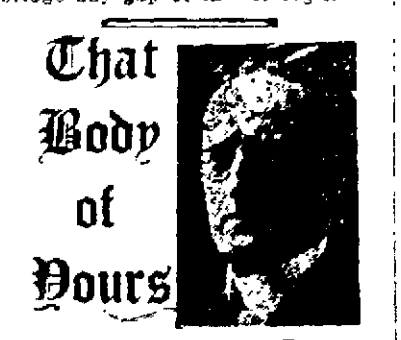

The present outlook is that Italy will get the oil question side, obtaining their supplies from the United States.

and saying that it is useless for them to shut down on oil shipments if this country won't. Our government apparently is in about the same position. Each side is waiting for assurance from the other. The average American, also the average Englishman and Frenchman, would probably like to see all oil and other war essentials above normal peace time shipments shut off.

INDICTING A RACE.

The German Nazis have found another fine pretext for persecuting the Jews. In the assassination of Wilhelm Gustloff, a member of their organization, by a fiery young Jew in Switzerland, the Jew-baiters in Berlin seem to have welcomed the crime as furthering their political purposes and justifying further persecution. Julius Streicher, in his anti-Semitic newspaper, Frankische Zeitung, promptly declared that "the whole Jewish race must be brought before the court, for Frankfurt (the assassin) acted for his race."

So a murder indictment can be brought against a race! Here surely is a new principle in international law. A calm and fair-minded by-stander of any race is likely to ask what business a German Nazi like Gustloff had propagandizing in Switzerland, anyway, and just how a crime committed in Switzerland by a citizen of Yugoslavia involves all the Jews in Germany. No direct connection seems to have been discovered. But Nazi reasoning seems able to bridge any gap of law or logic.

RED CORPUSCLES.

As the little red cells of the blood pass in single file through the tiny blood vessels in the lungs, they absorb the oxygen from the air that is in the lungs and give out to the air the wastes they have gathered up in their travels around the body.

You can see that in order to supply all the cells of the body with oxygen to enable them to keep working, there must be a tremendous amount gathered as they pass through the lungs. It is estimated that if all the red cells could be spread out their surfaces (which absorb the oxygen from the air that is in the lungs) would be about 60 yards square, more than half the area or size of a large city block.

Now just how much oxygen each cell can take up or carry depends upon how rich it is in haemoglobin—the red coloring matter in the blood cell. This color in turn depends upon the amount of certain vital substances including iron that is in the red corpuscle.

If the liquid part of the blood without the red corpuscles could carry the oxygen, the weight of the blood itself with this oxygen in it would weigh twice as much as the weight of an average man.

One of the first symptoms of lack of oxygen due to thin blood is getting out of breath and getting tired easily. The point then is that you and I are only as well or as strong as the number and richness of the red corpuscles in our blood. If the number of red corpuscles is normal but the amount of haemoglobin is low this is one form of anaemia (thin blood), and if the number of corpuscles is low and the haemoglobin is also low, this is another or more severe form.

That iron has been needed to enrich the amount of haemoglobin in the blood has been known for a long time. That some other substance, which prevents anaemia, was needed was known but the nature of this substance was discovered only a few years ago by Drs. Minot and Murphy of Boston. They found that calf's liver increased the number of the red corpuscles and also their richness and thus the prevention of pernicious anaemia, formerly an incurable ailment, is now possible. Other organs—stomach and intestine—are now used also.

So now you can understand why your physician prescribes pills or capsules containing iron or liver or liver extract when you are pale and run down.

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

SYNOPSIS: Frankie Derwent and Bobby Jones have set their sights on the murder of Alan Carstairs. They thought they had found the clue in the person of Roger Nicholson, but now they know that the clue is in the person of the woman who was with him when he was killed. The clue is in the person of the woman who was with him when he was killed. The clue is in the person of the woman who was with him when he was killed.

Chapter 23

FORTUNE favored her, for she fell in with Roger not far from the house.

"Hello," he said. "You're back early from London."

"I wasn't in the mood for London," said Frankie.

"Have you been to the house yet?" he asked. His face grew grave. "Nicholson, I find, has been telling Sylvia the truth about poor old Henry. Poor girl, she's taken it hard. It seems she had absolutely no suspicion."

"I know," said Frankie. "They were both together in the library when I came in. She was—very much upset."

"Look here, Frankie," said Roger. "Henry has absolutely got to be cured. It isn't as though this drug habit had a real hold on him. He hasn't been taking it so very long—"

Frankie interrupted. "Look here," she said. "There's something I want to ask you. Just a question. I hope you won't think I'm simply triflingly impertinent."

"What is it?" asked Roger, his attention arrested.

"Do you mind telling me whether you took a photograph out of that man's pocket—the one who fell over the cliff at Marchholt?"

She was studying him closely, watching every detail of his expression. She was satisfied with what she saw.

"Now how on earth did you come to guess that?" he said. "Or did you tell me? But then, she doesn't know—"

"You did then?"

"I suppose I'll have to admit it."

"Why?"

Roger seemed embarrassed again. "Well, look at it as I did. Here I am mounting guard over a strange dead body. Something is sticking out of his pocket. I look at it. By an amazing coincidence it's the photograph of a woman I know—a married woman—and a woman who I guess is not too happily married. What's going to happen? An inquest. Publicly. Possibly the wretched girl's name in all the papers. I acted on impulse. Took the photograph and tore it up. I dare say I acted wrongly, but I didn't want her to get landed in a mess."

Frankie drew a deep breath. "So that was it," she said. "If you only knew—"

"Knew what?" said Roger, puzzled.

"I don't know that I can tell you just now," said Frankie. "I may later. It's all rather complicated. I can quite see why you took the photograph, but was there any objection to your saying you recognized the man? Oughtn't you to have told the police who he was?"

"Recognized him?" said Roger. He looked bewildered. "How could I recognize him? I didn't know him."

"Alan Carstairs—you did know Alan Carstairs?"

"Oh, yes. Man who came down with the Rivingtons. But the dead man wasn't Alan Carstairs."

"But he was?"

THEY stared at each other. Then Frankie said, with a renewal of suspicion. "Surely you must have recognized him?"

"I never saw his face," said Roger. "What?"

"No. There was a handkerchief spread over it."

Frankie stared at him. Suddenly she remembered that in Bobby's first account of the tragedy he had mentioned putting a handkerchief over the face of the dead man.

"You never thought of looking?" went on Frankie.

"No. Why should I?"

"Of course," thought Frankie. "If I'd found a photograph of somebody I knew in a dead person's pocket, I should simply have had to look at the person's face. How beautifully ludicrous men are!" She paused for a moment. "Poor little sister," she went on. "I'm so terribly sorry for her."

"Whom do you mean? Moira Nicholson? Why are you so sorry for her?"

"Because she's frightened," said Frankie slowly.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Feb. 17.—Mrs. E. C. Burchard and her pupils enjoyed a Valentine party at the Shokan schoolhouse following the school session Thursday afternoon. A number of games were played and there was a general exchange of valentines. The refreshments consisted of beans, pickles, cake and chocolate ice cream. The affair was promoted by the True Blue Club of which Charles Personous is the president.

Mrs. Orval Fortson is visiting friends in New York city. Mrs. Fortson expects soon to leave on a trip to Florida.

John Burke of New York is spending a week's vacation with his family here.

Fred G. Robbe, whose wedding plans were chronicled in The Freeman last week, resided during his honeymoon at the Shokan resort, owned by Joseph Kelly, Young Robbe's father, Louis E. Robbe, was a member of the engineering staff of the Board of Water Supply.

Elder Arnold Bellows came here from West Hurley Sunday to conduct preaching services in the Olive and Hurley Baptist Church of which he is the pastor. A number of Baptists journeyed to Shokan for the services despite the uncertain traveling conditions.

Luke Birmingham, one of Kingston's best known traveling salesmen, is spending three weeks in Florida. Mr. Birmingham for years has been a frequent business caller in the village center.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osterhout and children, Clyde and Billy, motored to Woodstock for the winter sports Sunday afternoon.

Burtis A. Wheat, who has employment in New York this winter, spent a few days last week with his family at their Mountain Valley cottage.

Egbert Risely and family of Glenford were numbered among the callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday. Mr. Risely, a valued employee of the Chevrolet shop in Kingston, is a former Mt. Tremper young man.

Mrs. Reynolds W. Bishop of Lake Hill called on her former neighbors, Mrs. Julia Hogan and Mrs. Margaret Rainey, Friday afternoon.

February 17, 1897, Olive Bridge news: The Rev. Mr. Ashton has closed the revival meetings at Tontore and has over a score of converts.

The Ladies Aid Society held a business meeting at Mr. Benjamin Silkworth's on February 6.

C. O. Winne has shipped all the chimney caps for the new hall at Vassar College, and now has several men employed in getting out the steps.

Mrs. Howard Barton has a very severe attack of the grip. The Olive Manufacturing Company have contracted their pulp for another year, and are now buying their supply of wood.

The question agitating the voters is whether there will be a new iron bridge at Shokan, or whether the old one will be repaired again. A town meeting will be held to decide the matter.

Miss Laura Smith of Glenford has been a guest for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adair.

William Lasher, a former Brown's Station boy, called on his friend, Herbert A. Dibbell, Sunday. Mr. Lasher for several years has been employed by the Board of Water Supply in New York city.

Frank Baringer, local watershed inspector, called on his brother, William, and family, at Margaretville, Friday.

The next monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church will take place at the church on Tuesday afternoon, March 10, which is also the date of the annual meeting of the congregation. A covered dish supper will be served by the Aid upon this occasion.

Out of town Old School Baptists attending services here Sunday morning and afternoon included the following: Hewitt Osborn, Athens; Orville Winchell, Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks of Phoenixia.

About eight inches of snow fell here Thursday and Friday as compared with a reported fall of one foot in Kingston. Saturday, a genuine thaw and excellent maple sap weather ensued, but of course no one started any syrup-making operations on account of the deep snow on the ground.

Any work in the maple groves this season necessarily will be late, as weather conditions probably will preclude any tapping for some time to come. Meanwhile, every one appears resigned to the prospect of a sudden thaw accompanied by rain.

Mrs. George VonderOsten left Shokan Sunday by bus for New York for a visit with relatives.

Fred Weeks, Sr., who makes frequent trips to the coal mines with his big truck, reports much deeper snow in Pennsylvania where travel is confined to one traffic lane and a truck. Mr. Weeks drives by way of the Ulster Valley and the route through Deposit.

The upper end of the mountain road, plowed open a week ago at the Rock, again drifted full at the Rock, making a detour through the hills necessary at this point. Arthur Carter with his saw was able to get through to Mrs. Dennis T. Lynch's home, isolated since the blizzard, and saw up a pile of firewood. The ladder road at this writing remains drifted full as does several hundred feet of the Winchell farm half-mile driveway.

The one-mile stretch of Ridge road appears to have discouraged the town snow men as no attempt has been made recently to make this ancient highway passable for cars. The county plows continued to throw back the snow a little farther on each trip up and down Route 28, and their success brings out the usual shower brigade of housewives, bent on clearing from their drives and front walks the snow-wall left in the wake of the plows.

Many "light snows" and the village snow men will turn, in the fashion, to the removal of accumulated snow by trucks, thereby setting a precedent for this neck of the woods.

Any American may be a "line," but he has just one vote.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Democratic politicians here had no sooner congratulated themselves on the rift among the Republicans in New Jersey over the handling of the Hauptmann case by Governor Hoffman than troubles of their own cropped up in Massachusetts.

The fight between the Ely and Curley factions of Democrats in the Bay state over control of the delegation to the national convention in Philadelphia may be of important political significance. Governor Ely has said that he will work to send an anti-Roosevelt delegation to the convention. Mayor Curley countered by saying he will present an organization of delegates pledged to President Roosevelt for the primaries to be held in April.

Where does that leave the third dominant figure among Massachusetts democrats—Senator Walsh?

The answer to that question would relieve the minds of many in the Democratic high command.

As Smith Goes . . .

IN 1932 Senator Walsh and Governor Ely worked shoulder to shoulder for the nomination of Al Smith. They succeeded in having a delegation to the Chicago convention instructed for Smith, which stuck with him to the very last.

Walsh refuses to commit himself one way or the other now. That he will be forced to eventually appears certain. Both Ely and Curley have declared their intentions of fighting to the finish for control of the Massachusetts delegation and Walsh will be forced into the fight regardless of how distasteful it may be to him.

Governor Hoffman's refusal to surrender his leadership or to abdicate his rights and powers in the Republican party there and his promise to make a real fight over the matter has cheered the Democrats greatly.

BAD DEBTS—YEAR IN WHICH DEDUCTIBLE

To be allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed and, where books are kept, it also must have been charged off within the same year. The necessity for this provision is obvious. If a debt could be deducted without the requirement that it be charged off the taxpayer's books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be open to question. Neither the taxpayer nor the government could be certain that a debt would not be claimed more than once.

If a bad debt were allowed as a deduction without regard to the year when it became worthless, such charges could be accumulated to be deducted in a year when there was a large income.

The burden is upon the taxpayer to show that a debt claimed as a deduction was without value during the taxable year. A statement should be attached to the return showing the propriety of any deductions for bad debts. If in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, deduction for such debt is allowable.

Court action as proof that the debt is worthless is not essential. It is optional with the taxpayer. In a year prior to that in which a debt becomes wholly worthless, to take a deduction for partial loss if partial worthlessness occurs. If it can be shown that upon maturity of a bond, mortgage, or note evidencing a debt it will not be paid in full, the partial loss is deductible.

During the calendar year ending December 31, 1925, the United States imported for consumption agricultural commodities valued at $1,195,761,000. This is about twice as much as the total benefit payments that were made to farmers throughout the country during 1925, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act. These payments, in round figures amounted to $589,000,000.

GOOD GARDENING

Don't let your zeal for turning the good earth lead you to putting a stove into the garden too early, or before the last of the winter rains have dried out well. It's hard to say just how much moisture is right but here's a good test. Squeeze a handful of soil and drop it. If the soil remains stuck together it's too wet to work. Don't squeeze your back in shoving, and take right along behind the spading, breaking up the lumps and clods while they're still moist. In all cases manure or the best available substitute—should be turned under. The whole garden should be hoed over to a depth of four to five inches in preparation for planting after it has been studied as deep as the mud soil gives.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Essential Training

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"Our income is too uncertain for us to give Sam a regular allowance."

Yet Sam probably is glad enough money to go to school. He has to have his hair cut every two or three weeks, pay car fares when necessary, and buy a soda like the other boys. There is food on the table every day, the car is supplied with gas and oil, the family wears clothes, because these things are necessary. That Sam should have an allowance is not necessary in his parents' eyes.

But what is it that makes Sam's father, who a few years ago was an erect and young-looking man stoop when he walks? Why is Sam's mother nervous and sleepless? What haunts most of the waking hours of both parents? Money troubles. How to make one penny do the work of two.

If money can make so much difference to people, the sooner the children learn about it and how to use it the better. The lesson is as important as anything they learn at school. And only handling money of one's own can give the necessary experience. The allowance does not need to be large. Sam may as well learn at once that he cannot have everything and that his fortunes are tied up with those of his family.

He can be given the money that would otherwise have been doled out for pictures, car fares, treats and hair cuts, in a lump sum at regular intervals. Then he can make his own decisions as to how he will spend it. If he prefers to walk, and so save car fares, it is his affair. He can decide whether the movie is worth the price, and can delay his visit to the barber an extra day or even a week.

Meanwhile he has the feeling of confidence and self-respect which money in one's pocket always gives the owner.

Shady School Fire

Woodstock, Feb. 18.—The Woodstock Fire Department was called out on Sunday at about 11:30 o'clock when the defective chimney in the Shady school was the cause of a fire in the building. Flames through the chimney set fire to the surrounding ceiling and roof. Most of the fire damage was above the ceiling, so there was little danger to the pupils of the Sunday School which was then in session in the school house. The organ, teacher's desk, and other school supplies were removed before the arrival of the engine so that only the building and desks were injured by water. When the fire was belied out the engine returned to Woodstock only to be called a second time to extinguish smoldering timbers in the ceiling. On the second trip only the booster tank was necessary.

Hens Get Rooster Feathers In Scientific Studies Of Sex

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

Palo Alto, Cal. (AP)—By growing rooster feathers on hens, Dr. C. H. Danforth, professor of anatomy at Stanford University, has struck deeply into an understanding of the origins of sex.

Dr. Danforth alters the feather color-patterns and shapes from one sex to another by giving the birds hypodermics of endocrine gland secretions, such as thyroxin, the hormone of the thyroid.

But the endocrine effective on one breed of birds is not always effective on another, or works in a different fashion. The experiments show that the sex patterns of Leghorns are fixed by their sex glands, while those of Campines rise from the feather roots.

The same endocrine hormone changes the sex of feathers of both these birds, but the amounts needed differ. So the sex of the feathers depends on more than one factor, and on some not directly sexual.

Hormones Unchanged.

Furthermore, hormones of human beings, male or female, change the sex of these bird feathers as efficiently as do the bird's own hormones.

This shows, Dr. Danforth suggests, that the hormone products of the endocrine glands, have not changed in the long process of evolution. But chickens and men have changed. Normally each now reacts differently to the same hormone.

Through many experiments, Dr. Danforth shows it is possible that sex originated in living protoplasm.

"It has frequently been suggested," he says, "that sex was developed through evolutionary processes as a means for the rapid dissemination of favorable traits.

"There are good theoretical reasons for believing that sex has played an important role in the development of organic life and perhaps been the chief factor in making possible the evolution of higher forms.

The sex changes which a chicken feather can be made to go through are shown in these four pictures of the same feather: (1) growing from female chicken skin grafted on a rooster; (2) when the rooster becomes castrated; (3) while the rooster is receiving thyroxin; and (4) after the thyroxin treatment is stopped.

"But, however great the advantages of sex, these cannot in themselves account for its (sex's) origin. In the light of much evidence, sexuality seems to depend on a deep-seated attribute of protoplasm itself, namely, a tendency for fusion.

"Protoplasmic fusions occur not only where there is a definite sexual implication, but often where there is not. Fusion may produce stimulating or catalytic effects greatly enhancing protoplasmic activity.

"If sexuality arose as the expression of some such fundamental attribute of protoplasm as this, it would bring in its train the secondary advantages which are commonly recognized and would lay the foundation for the remarkable evolutionary elaboration that has taken place."

Adds Another to List of War Veterans

A correspondent from Ellenville calls attention to the fact that there are living in that village at this time two survivors of the Civil War Joseph H. Clark, who was mentioned in a recent news story referring to survivors living in Ulster county, and Charles Michel.

This addition makes seven Civil War veterans now living in Ulster county. Quite possibly there are still others who have not been mentioned.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

That necessity of modern life, the telephone, is looked on as a time-waster by many a big business man despite the fact that he couldn't carry on without it. Many busy men employ various devices and even subterfuges to escape unwelcome and unimportant calls and at the same time not miss any that really matter. The best buffer is an efficient secretary of course, but even the most careful secretaries make slips and on occasions, fearing loss of jobs or business by the boss, pass on calls that prove embarrassing. One big business man whose house has branches all over the country and whose personal telephone calls run into the hundreds each day, has solved the problem in a manner that has worked perfectly so far. His personal secretary is named Josephine. If some one calls up, addresses her as "Joe" and asks for the boss, the call goes right through—"Joe" of course being the code word. But I'm wondering what would happen should she fail to recognize the voice of some boy friend.

Many of the calls that big business men desire to duck are those of insurance salesmen. Soliciting business over the phone is a common practice in New York and various agents have a way of calling up, giving their names immediately and quaking in such an impressive tone that the call goes where desired—the business not being mentioned of course. Then, too, in the old days, there were the "dynamiters," the sales of worthless securities who did business over the telephone. In some way, my name got on the sucker list and I used to have a lot of fun, placing the receiver on the desk and letting the "dynamiter" go on and on . . . and spurring him into renewed effort with now and then a statement, "I didn't quite get that."

Numbers being connected with telephones just as him is connected with eggs at breakfast time, the numbers game comes into mind. There has been quite a campaign against the policy racket, arrests have been made, some prison terms are being served and several big shots have been permanently turned from their sinful and profitable ways by bullets. Nevertheless, the numbers game continues to flourish. Runners still make regular rounds of apartment houses and collect bets ranging from a penny to a dollar from hall boys, elevator men, porters and janitors. Runners also make rounds of many office buildings and collect not only from employees but tenants as well. Runners get not only a percentage of their collections but, if a client wins, they get a percentage on that, too. Usually, clients get nothing.

Policy players are always on the lookout for a "lucky" number. A number dreamed is regarded as especially lucky. A colored porter who once played four cents on the number on the door of this office won $20. That was two years ago and he hasn't hit since but keeps on. When dispatches told of 510 Italians being killed in an Ethiopian raid, Harlem rushed to play that number. Sure enough, it did come out. But there were so many betters, the bankers couldn't pay. And still the numbers racket continues.

Gambling reminds me of an experience of a Westchester commuter the other day—a happening that caused him to believe in Santa Claus. Scanning his hand, he discovered he held the cards for a perfect seven trump contract. Hardly had he done so than his station was called. The dilemma was a serious one. He remembered that his wife was giving a dinner party for important people, and should be late, his home standing would be less than zero. And if he missed his station, he wouldn't get home until at least three-quarters of an hour after the time set!

While the commuter was wondering what to do, the train stopped with a jerk despite the fact that the station was still several blocks away. With the stop, came the announcement that the power was off. The hand was played out, the commuter collected, hopped a taxi, got home—and learned that he'd missed his dates. That dinner wasn't until the next night.

Chicago.—The United States retained international leadership in civil aviation in 1935, reports United Air Lines, which set an international record by flying more passengers, mail and express and passenger miles than any air line in the world. ROME CLAIMS BIG VICTORY

This map shows the location of Ethiopian plains which Rome reported taken after a terrific five-day battle. Defenders, estimated numbering 80,000, are reported retreating southward, leaving about 20,000 casualties. Military dispatches to Rome say the Ethiopian stronghold of Amba Aradam, and the caravan towns of Antalo and Scilcote are now in Italian hands.

Duce Leads Italians in Victory Celebration

In paving and asphaltizing highways, unpassable.

On the Somaliland front, cleared of ruins by midsummer, automobile trucks can push almost anywhere on the level and hard desert.

Columns can move much faster. Ambush is much more difficult than in the mountain fastnesses of the Tembien and Maale sectors.

Tremendous success in the south before the front here can be reopened might even make it unnecessary for Italy to go back again to the mode of warfare that has resulted in the conquest of Tigre.

Victory Denied.

Addis Ababa, Feb. 18 (AP).—Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopian war minister, telegraphed to the government today a denial of Italian claims of a victory on the northern front.

Ras Mulugheta said there were several patrol skirmishes last week in which the Italians lost "heavily" and the Ethiopians suffered 31 killed and 75 wounded.

A government communique, describing the Italian claims of a victory south of Makale, and an advance of 16 miles to Amba Aradam as absurd and impossible, probably will be issued tomorrow, authoritative sources said.

Marius Brophill, Irish Red Cross representative who returned recently from the north, was summoned to the palace where he signed a statement, to be published soon, designed to show the Italian claims unreasonable.

TIPS ON CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL.

Hard Defense Guess

Against players who know how to make a real squeeze, a pseudo squeeze usually will fail, but there comes a hand which is an exception. Fearing to ungird a king in one suit lest the declarer have the ten-spot, a defender discarded protection for a queen in another suit with the result that the declarer ruffed the queen out and was able to set up a low card. Here was the hand:

NORTH		SOUTH
♠ A Q 4 2	♠ 5 3	♠ K J 7 4	♠ J 10
♥ A K 8 7	♥ Q 6 5	♥ K Q 7 2	♥ J 10
♦ A K 8 7	♦ Q 6 5	♦ K Q 7 2	♦ J 10
♣ A K 8 7	♣ Q 6 5	♣ K Q 7 2	♣ J 10

Over South's one heart, North offered one spade. South bid two hearts and North three diamonds. South soared forth with six hearts, which East doubled.

It would seem highly improbable that more than 10 tricks could be won by the declarer. In view of the double—one spade, six hearts, two diamonds and one club. But in the process of discarding on hearts, East eventually shed a diamond. At the end the declarer discarded a spade from the South hand on the good seven of diamonds and lost only one trick—to the ace of clubs.

The opening lead was the logical low club. A low one was played North and East went up with the ace and returned the suit. He was sorry later that he had not played the ten-spot, which would have held the declarer to one club trick instead of two. A spade opening also might have prevented what ensued.

After winning two club tricks and exhausting the adverse trump, the declarer, Henry Knott, in a rubber game at Bridge House, New York, played one more heart, leaving this situation:

NORTH		SOUTH
♠ A Q 4 2	♠ 5 3	♠ K J 7 4	♠ J 10
♥ A K 8 7	♥ Q 6 5	♥ K Q 7 2	♥ J 10
♦ A K 8 7	♦ Q 6 5	♦ K Q 7 2	♦ J 10
♣ A K 8 7	♣ Q 6 5	♣ K Q 7 2	♣ J 10

On the heart seven, West shed a diamond. The queen of spades was thrown from the North hand. What should East do?

If South had the ten of spades there would be a real squeeze situation. A spade discard East would enable the declarer to take two tricks with spades, and so East shed a diamond.

The declarer led the jack of diamonds, covered with the ace and played the king. The eight and queen were trumped South, making the seven spot North high. The ace of spades and the diamond took the last two tricks.

Post-mortem kibitzers were inclined to the view that since West had scored the plot and discarded no spades, East should not have hesitated to ungird his king, especially after the queen was discarded North.

Relief Situation Before Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Governor Herbert H. Lehman's proposal for a study of the unemployment situation in New York state is before the legislature today.

Senator John J. Dunningan, Democratic senate leader, proposed in a bill introduced last night that a special commission composed of the legislative leaders and four persons appointed by the governor undertake the inquiry.

The commission would be empowered to study the functioning of the present system of unemployment relief, the manner in which it operates and the nature and extent of the relief afforded. The number of persons benefited as well as the number in need or likely to continue in need of some form of relief.

Other new bills before the legislature would:

Prohibit the placing of more than one inmate in a single prison cell.

Prohibit banks and trust companies from financing the purchase of automobiles on time payments, or from loaning money where a motor vehicle is to be placed as security.

Authorize the city of New York to lease park lands to New York World's Fair 1939, Inc., the organization underwriting the proposed exposition, and to appropriate $7,100,000 from the proceeds of a bond sale authorized for reclaiming Flushing Meadows Park.

Vest in prison wardens sole discretion with regard to the discharge of employees.

Two Years of Peace.

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Two years of peace in the garment industry was promised today by ratification of a new agreement between management and labor. The ratification of the agreement between the dress joint board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and four employers' organization was the occasion for a half holiday in the industry yesterday. More than 21,000 union members gathered in Madison Square Garden to approve the agreement forestalling a strike of 165,000 workers which had threatened for two weeks.

Parent-Teacher Associations

J.-T. A. No. 4

Founder's Day was celebrated by the P.-T. A. of School No. 4 at its February meeting held on Tuesday afternoon.

The Founder's Day address was given by Mrs. W. R. Anderson. She gave a memorial sketch of the life of Mrs. David O. Mears, who was among the delegates at the organization meeting of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers held on February 17, at the Arlington Hotel in Washington, D. C., 39 years ago. She stated that Mrs. Mears helped organize both the National and the New York State Congress, served for 11 years as the second New York state president and for 12 years as first vice president of the National Congress, refusing many times during these years the national presidency.

Mrs. Anderson mentioned that Mrs. Mears was the daughter of J. B. Grinnell, the young minister to whom Horace Greeley gave his famous advice, "Go west, young man, go west." Her father heard this advice, settled in Iowa where he founded the town of Grinnell, also established Grinnell College, both named for himself. He represented the state in congress and became prominently associated with the history of the state. He was a direct descendant of John and Priscilla Alden of the Massachusetts colony. Her mother was a descendant of John Eliot, an early colonial preacher who became an apostle to the Indians. Her mother was Julia Chopin before her marriage and she held in her home in Iowa the first mother's meeting west of the Mississippi river. The husband of Mrs. Mears, Dr. David O. Mears, was a prominent Presbyterian minister. At the time of the organization meeting in Washington he was preaching in Albany and at his invitation she gave an account of the meeting and made a plea for the cause, from his pulpit.

In 1910, while serving as first vice president of the National Congress, Mrs. Mears conceived the idea of setting apart the birthday of the National Congress and of each unit celebrating the day at its February meeting every year and sending a contribution towards national and state extension work. She served as National Founder's Day chairman until her death last September at Palo Alto, Cal., although for the last few years, failing health necessitated her having an assistant.

She spent her summers at Orchard Home, the ancestral home of her husband at Essex, Mass., and she is buried in an ancient cemetery near this home beside her husband and her daughter, Helen, whose death in 1912 was a heavy grief to her parents. A son, Elliot Grinnell Mears, a professor in Stanford University, survives her.

Mrs. Mears gave to the P.-T. A. work of her time, her talents and her finances, to the limit of her ability for nearly 40 years. She has done more than any other person to preserve the historical records of the congress. From her personal scrap books and files, containing hundreds of programs, leaflets and other important documents, was taken the material for the book "Through the years," published in 1932, which gives the history of the early years of the National Congress.

Mrs. Mears will be ever remembered for her deep religious faith, her beauty both of person and of soul and for her gracious personality which enabled her while constantly making new friends to hold all her old ones.

In closing her remarks, Mrs. Anderson read a poem entitled "A Valentine to Mrs. Mears" written by Cora Pace Hoover and published in the "National Parent Teacher."

A past national president's candle lighting ceremony, written and conducted by Mrs. Anderson followed. After which a collection was taken for state and national extension work and the large birthday cake and cocoa were served.

The program chairman, Mrs. R. H. Van Valkenburgh, presided at the meeting.

The publicity chairman gave some flashes from "The New York Parent Teacher" and "The National Bulletin." It was explained that Kingston is slated to have one of the sectional conferences to be held next October, in place of the large state convention usually held each year. This will be held October 6-7, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The following counties will participate: Delaware, Sullivan, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster, Greene, Columbia, Schoharie and Otsego. The convention theme will be "The Child and His Community." A uniform program has been prepared for each of the six sectional meetings. Voting for officers will be carried on and tabulated in each section and sent to the business meeting to be held in Ulster on October 15, when the final report will be made and officers elected and installed.

Cornell P.-T. A. Institute will be held April 20-24. The theme will be "Problems of Public School Education Growing Out of Changes and Maladjustments in Society."

Resolutions for Probe In New York Received

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Resolutions proposing legislative investigation of the New York city administration were before both houses of the state legislature today.

Assemblyman Edward S. Moran, Jr., Brooklyn Democrat, asked an appropriation of $50,000 for an inquiry into a "prosecution of incidents which can no longer be viewed with benign equanimity." He declared that if the administration "has nothing to fear, it should welcome" such an investigation.

In the senate an appropriation of $15,000 was sought by Senator A. Spencer Field, Manhattan Democrat, who charged that "the machinery of the New York City Department of Sanitation has apparently broken down, with the result that the health of the people is menaced by the accumulation of garbage in the streets."

Senator Field demanded an investigation by a committee of three senators and four assemblymen, while Assemblyman Moran requested a committee of three assemblymen and five senators.

Meanwhile in New York, Lester B. Stone, a confidential secretary to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, said that the mayor "would never comment" on the Moran proposal for an investigation. "Moran has made similar proposals before," Stone said.

Here is a general view of Wilson dam, on the Tennessee river, which figured in the Supreme Court's long-awaited TVA decision. Man at 114 Years Sees No Sting in the Grave

St. Paul, Neb., Feb. 18 (AP).—Solomon Franklin Rickner, Nebraska's oldest inhabitant—celebrated his 114th birthday today; and for him, death holds no sting, he says.

It was a financial trouble which bred melancholy in the mind of the super centenarian.

"I do not know why I should lose everything," he said, "after working so hard all my life. I have no desire to live any longer."

County authorities recently approved Rickner's application for an old age pension—$30 a month, the maximum.

Three sources of material pleasure remain for Rickner: Pine, prunes and tuncs.

A new radio tabled Rickner to hear a cheerful program arranged for him.

Mrs. Cora Corbe, 70, Rickner's daughter, with whom he lives, reassures she fills his life 50 times a day.

Instead of a birthday cake, Rickner requested his favorite dish today: Prune pie, baked in his daughter's oven.

Rickner is feeble and almost blind.

He aged noticeably since his 114th birthday.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 18 (AP).—Faltering utilities, still under the spell of the TVA decision, today dragged the stock market into irregularity which cut gains of other sections down to a point or less in many cases.

Breathing the downward current were steels, rails, communication issues, motors, rail equipments, farm equipments, aircrafts and many industrial specialties.

American Telephone, Western Union and Radio added fractions, and New York Central, Northern Pacific and Delaware & Hudson were a bit better.

Standing out in the motors were General Motors, Chrysler, Packard and Reo. Douglas, Curtiss-Wright and United Air were calmer. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel had a hard time keeping in the plus column.

American Locomotive, Lima Locomotive and American Car & Foundry were up over a point, and Baldwin Locomotive, a low-priced issue, put on a fraction.

Major declines in the utilities occurred in Public Service of N. J., National Power & Light and North American. Others off were Consolidated Gas, United Corp., Commonwealth & Southern, American Water Works and Columbia Gas.

The dollar strengthened against foreign exchanges, cotton was mixed, grains narrow, and bonds were soft with utilities losing most. Call money renewed at 3/4 of one per cent.

Expecting Large Crowds at Regional Fruit Meetings

The annual winter fruit meetings which are sponsored by the Ulster County Farm Bureau will take place on Thursday and Friday, February 20 and 21, at Marlborough and Modena. This year's meetings will be held in the form of two two-day regional fruit schools, instead of the one or two session meetings which have been in fashion in past years. By making this change more time can be allowed for each specialist to develop his subject. Also it will be possible to turn a greater part of one day over to an informal discussion of the local fruit problems. This in itself should warrant the change.

Knowing the fruit growers as I believe I do, it will take pretty severe weather to keep most of them away from this annual Farm Bureau event. There are all anxious to discuss their individual spray problems with Dr. P. J. Chapman, entomologist, and Dr. J. M. Hamilton, Plant Pathologist, both from the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva and the substation at Poughkeepsie. Then since fruit growing is a long time program, every fruit grower is extremely interested in the outlook for the industry. Dr. E. A. Harper, from the Department of Agriculture Economics at Cornell University at Ithaca will present the outlook material on Friday morning, February 21, at Marlborough and in the afternoon of the same day at Modena.

Again fruit growers as a class of farmers must be well informed in every phase of their business from the production end to the marketing of the crops. It is because of this that every apple producer in this county who can get away will plan to hear Dr. E. L. Overholser, head of the Pomology Department of the State Agricultural College at Washington, Dr. Overholser will give two talks at Marlborough and two at Modena on Thursday, February 20. His talks will have to do with the growing of apples on the west coast.

In order to have a well rounded out program it is also essential to discuss our local cultural and marketing problems. Dr. M. B. Hoffman from the pomology department at Cornell will be on hand Friday to give us his last findings on the handling and care of apples to prevent bruising as well as the importance of bringing young apple trees into bearing at an early age. The Marlborough meetings will begin at 10 a. m. each day and will take place in St. Mary's Hall. While the Modena meetings will begin at 1:30 and 8 p. m. each day and will be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall.

Kuryka Ready but Stayed on Bench for The Passaic Contest

Hank Kuryka, the old hall hawk of the Kingston team in the State League last season, was ready for action in the Passaic game last night at the Municipal Auditorium, but was not called into service by Frank "Pop" Morgenwerk. Morgenwerk was satisfied with the way his club clicked, minus the services of Kuryka, and when a substitution was made in the third period, Pop called on Fred "Corky" Stanton to relieve Frank Shimek instead of taking Hank off the bench. Old Hank got a big hand when he walked onto the court before the game, and another round of applause as he caged his first practice shot. There were many anxious to see him in action, including Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver, who procured his release from the Buffalo Bisons.

At the beginning of the season, Kuryka was with Kingston but was forced to pack his duds and leave for Paterson to hunt up a job, because he made a mistake by signing his name to two contracts. Prior to putting his "John Hancock" on the dotted line for Pop Morgenwerk, Kurt joined the Buffalo club. The Bisons claimed him and would not let him play in the American League, slapping an injunction on him.

Washington Scene

A battle of books for and against New Deal fiscal policy and the threatened physical encounter between Father Charles E. Coughlin and Representative John J. O'Connor occupied politicians today, but they gave most attention to the Supreme Court's TVA decision. While on first blush, many felt President Roosevelt would benefit from the court's favorable decision, there was no agreement on this. Some believed the decision might prevent the supreme court and the Constitution from developing into a predominant campaign issue. Many Democrats have felt that if the supreme court followed up its invalidation of AAA, with decisions junking the TVA, the Wagner Labor Act and other New Deal laws, large numbers of persons would rally against the court, the Constitution or both.

On the other hand, many Democrats, particularly those from the south, have been advising the President to soft pedal on the tribunal and the Constitution.

An adverse decision, some felt, would have taken the power issue out of the campaign except as part of a general drive to curb the court's powers or to change the Constitution.

But now, with at least part of the power program upheld, some politicians felt it would bring a life-and-death struggle between those who want the government in the power business and those who don't.

Divergent opinions on government fiscal policy came from two former treasury officials.

Former Secretary Ogden L. Mills, in his book "Liberalism Fights On," published today, declared that balancing of the budget "is of overwhelming importance to the welfare of the nation." He said "all the elements of a great explosion" have been gathered together, among which he lists:

"Constant expansion of credit through government borrowing, enormous excess reserves available for further expansion, and an anticipated business recovery ready to give the initial stages of an inflationary boom the appearance of legitimate business expansion."

On the other hand, Chester T. Crowell, writer and former special assistant in the treasury, defended devaluation of the dollar, managed currency, the public debt and government lending.

In a pamphlet "Recovery Unlimited," published today, Crowell declared:

"This is the first time we have ever come out of a depression under our own power. We turned the job over to President Roosevelt and he has done it. That is something new under our sun."

Sorosis

Sorosis met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Barrow on February 17. The business meeting was brief. Programs for the coming year were discussed with a great deal of enthusiasm. The paper, "Religion in England" was read by Mrs. George B. Styles. Mrs. Styles spoke of the Glastonbury Church as being the first church built in England. Canterbury Cathedral was established by Augustine, who became the first archbishop in 597 A. D. John Wycliffe, who lived in the 14th century, is credited with translating the Bible from Latin into English. The paper was followed by a roll call of "Famous Edifices" and "Centers of Industry." Mrs. Barrow served tea on a beautiful old English tea set which was a family heirloom. Sorosis will meet with Mrs. William MacGregor Mills next Monday.

The Olympian Club

On Monday evening, the Olympian Club met at the home of Miss Schutt. During the business session, suggestions were offered for a subject of study for next year. Mrs. Decker extended an invitation to the club members to be her guests at the open meeting of the Kingston Musical Society to be held on February 26 at the Fair Street Reformed Church. The afternoon's program proved to be of special interest. Miss Hale had a very enjoyable paper on "Italian Villas and Gardens." This was followed by a fascinating reading taken from C. A. Mason's "The Spell of Southern Shores," describing Villa Laute, given by Miss Goodsell. A very comprehensive and delightful paper was given by Miss McCullough, her subject being "Sicily, the Garden." The evening closed with a social hour and the serving of refreshments. The next meeting will be on March 2 with Mrs. Berwin.

Two Men Injured In Utica Gas Blast

Utica, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Several thousands persons hastily evacuated the main business section today when a serious of illuminating gas explosions set fire to two buildings and hurled manhole covers high into the air. A policeman and a fireman were seriously injured. Several plate glass windows in Genesee and Bleeker streets, Utica's main business thoroughfares, were smashed. The fires were quickly extinguished, but police refused to let anyone re-enter the zone. It was announced at noon that three broken gas mains, feeding into sewers and cable tunnels had been shut off, but a fourth main was still spreading gas under the main business section. There was no panic, but office and store workers, disarmed by their employers, quickly left the section. Late in the morning an area of six blocks radius was roped off. It was deserted except for police and firemen who feared explosions within the buildings. Gas pressure dropped elsewhere in the city, but electric lights remained on. Up to noon there had been 12 to 15 explosions. Manhole covers in some cases rose 20 or 30 feet.

Acting Mayor Calls Public Hearing on Broadway Crossing

Acting Mayor John Schwenk today announced that he would hold a public hearing on the proposed elimination of the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad on Monday evening, February 24, at 7:30 o'clock in the council chambers in the city hall.

The hearing will be held to discuss plans for eliminating the crossing that have been drafted by the engineering department of the New York Central railroad. The plans call for the depressing of the street under the railroad tracks.

These plans are on file in the city clerk's office where they were left for public inspection. To date but little interest has been displayed and but few residents have called at the city hall to look over the railroad plans.

10 Cannon Jurors Accepted by Court

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—Ten of the twelve Dutchess county jurors who will decide the fate of Edward A. Cannon, 27, on trial for the death of Hilda Price, 19, fatally injured during a New Year's party, had been accepted by contending counsel and sworn when Justice Graham Witcheff recessed Supreme Court at noon today.

Emil Matheron of Beacon, selected as jurymen No. 4 yesterday, failed to report today because of illness. He was ordered to appear before the court should he fail to recover before the jury is complete. A 13th juror will be picked to serve in the event one of the 12 cannot complete the case.

Only 37 of the 132 veniremen summoned for the trial were questioned yesterday as opposing counsel began the task of choosing the jury in Supreme Court here.

Cannon, candy salesman and descendant of a formerly wealthy family, sat unmoved as prospective jurors were questioned. In addition to the murder charge, an indictment for rape, first degree, is pending against him.

Miss Price, attractive blonde waitress, died after a New Year's Eve party. The state, represented by District Attorney John R. Schwartz, charges that she was fatally injured in resisting Cannon's advances.

The defense, being conducted by Attorney L. Brandt Muckenhoupt, claims that she fell accidentally from Cannon's automobile.

The Salvation Army with an experience of more than 60 years behind it in caring for the lower strata of society as far as possible obeys the Bible injunction: "If any would not work, neither should he eat."

From 2 Thess. 3:10. This rule of course, is not applied to women and children or to the old and the sick, but only to able-bodied males. The Army carries on its work serving all in need of its services regardless of creed, color or condition in life.

The modest budget of only $3,000 which the faithful friends of the Army are endeavoring to raise in this community this week is earnestly needed to carry on the work throughout 1936. All friends of the Army are urged to contribute to the workers who will call on them during the next few days and to respond liberally and as generously as they can.

Pledges to be paid at the conferences of the donors during the week are solicited rather than cash. Both large and small contributions are badly needed—large amounts from those who can give them—smaller amounts from those unable to give the larger sums.

With the mobilization of the Salvation Army campaign organization a week, it is evident that one attitude seems to dominate a small cross-section of public opinion and which needs comment. This is a state of mind which assumes that governmental relief agencies have undertaken to solve all of the problems of poverty, disease and crime.

It is far from the truth. The federal government has repeatedly attempted to make it clear that relief measures are designed to carry the purely material needs of the temporarily unemployed employees.

The work of the Salvation Army does not duplicate that of the government or of any other agency, either local or otherwise.

The mental and physical consequences of malnutrition, worry over joblessness and deprivation of all aids must be treated if the victims which suffering are to be salvaged in the human wreckage in the wake of the depression. Fathers and their sons and daughters must be encouraged through the period of pair that follows unemployment.

The frequently attendant disintegration of the family. Youth must be constructively educated along character-building lines. None of these functions has been assumed by public relief agencies. As in the communities must assume them through the medium of voluntary workers.

The responsibility is greater than ever before, and it would be a fatal mistake to allow well-ordered fabric of the Salvation Army to break down in the face of public apathy which would result from the belief that the individual's responsibility has now been taken over by the government.

FOUR FOUND DEAD AFTER DETROIT BLAST

The home of William Beeching, in the River Rouge suburb of Detroit, is shown in the foreground, leveled by an explosion which officials attributed to gas. Beeching, his 50-year-old mother and their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corn, were found dead in the debris. Investigators, however, said they believed all the victims died of asphyxiation before the blast occurred. The Corn home is shown beyond the wreckage. (Associated Press Photo)

6 Persons Killed at Gold Mining Camp in Rockies By Roaring Avalanche

Survivor Begg Aid for 11 Companions Isolated in Wilderness; Rescue Crew Struggles Through Blizzard.

GRIM PROSPECTS

Outlook for Nation Made Gloomy By Forecasters; Sleet, Snow Cover State.

Manitou, Colo., Feb. 18 (AP).—Aid was pushed across the blizzard-lashed Rockies today to devastated gold mine camp where six persons were killed in an avalanche that roared off a mountain top to bury them under tons of rock and snow.

Striking with such terrific force that it catapulted a woman victim through the roof of a cook shack, the speeding mass tore across the Hesperus mine camp Sunday and shot the broken wreckage of half a dozen buildings into a small canyon 60 feet below.

It tore loose from the summit, 1,000 feet above the mine, and ripped a path three-quarters of a mile wide as it thundered down the slope.

Word of the disaster was brought here by Ben Hartley, one of 12 survivors at the mine, who made his way down the 16 miles of snow-buried mountain trails to notify authorities and arrange rescue for his 11 isolated companions.

Sheriff Jess Robinson of Montezuma county organized a rescue crew to go to the camp today, despite the fact a terrific storm was raging above the timberline.

Grim Prospects

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—Continued cold, with more snow, bigger ice jams, renewed threats of floods, additional deaths, and further isolation for numerous communities was in prospect today.

Shipping was hampered by high winds on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and by ice jams on rivers and canals of the interior.

While temperatures rose slowly in the Dakotas and along the Atlantic coast yesterday, the forecasts generally were for colder weather and more snow.

A Greek freighter, the S. S. Stefanos Costantis, radioed it was sinking, buffeted by winds and sea off the coast of Norfolk, Va. Several ships raced to the rescue.

Additional snowfall discouraged weary shovel and plow crews which labored to relieve acute distress from fuel and food shortages. The horse in some sections staged a strong comeback, bringing in supplies to towns unreachable by motor truck and airplane.

Transients finally broke the month-long imprisonment of Hatfield, Mo., last night to bring fuel and food to 200 beleaguered villagers, whose leaders feared exhaustion.

Rescuees Jubilant

The anxiety of residents, sharpened as shovels in the town's two stores gradually emptied, gave way to shouts of relief as the first of the four sleds creaked into town. It bore flour, sugar, rice, beans and kerosene for village stoves, and placed the usual supply case out three weeks ago.

The famous fishing schooner, Gertrude L. Thebaud, of Gloucester, Mass., with a crew of 29, was drifting off Canada, N. S., with disabled engines. Nineteen men from ground-sweeping boats drifted at sea.

The captain and four men aboard a tug, icebound for three weeks in a canal near Chomawin City, Md., were rescued after the ice broke up, sinking the boat.

The Elizabeth Tille, one of the largest steamers on the Ohio river, was sunk by ice at a dock at New Martinsville, W. Va.

Nashua reported one death yesterday. Wiscasset, Me., Illinois, Iowa.

and Montana one, that of Albert D. Ingebretson, 53, a rancher, who apparently tried to walk home in minus 52 degrees weather after an automobile accident.

Snow, Sleet in State

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP).—New snow and sleet storms swept across parts of New York state today as falling temperatures brought an end to a week-end respite from prolonged and bitter winter weather.

Snow plows worked on highways near Watertown and on the west slope of the Adirondacks, where six inches of snow fell during the night.

Trains and buses in northern New York were running one to three hours late. The temperature was 15 degrees above zero.

Buffalo reported a bright sun shining with a sharp wind and a temperature of three above. It was eight above at Rochester, where the last 24 hours brought three inches of fresh snow.

Two inches of light snow were added to a foot of snow and ice covering the Binghamton area this morning. Temperatures remained at slightly below freezing.

Snow was falling steadily in New York.

"Bare Sails" on Sandbar.

Boca Grande, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP).—Columbus, sailing westward toward the unknown, had no more trouble— if as much—than Naurice H. Alford, sailing southward to found a colony of tolerance. His "nudist" schooner Fleetwood is aground again. The Fleetwood was reported on a sand bar at Little Gasparilla Pass, about 50 miles from here.

Some of the voyagers swam ashore. They are bound for a "tour" of the West Indies to select an island where all members of the society can live as they please.

Last Period Rally Wins For Kingston Over Passaic, 31-21

Cities Service Club Takes Over Panthers at Auditorium in American League Game for Benefit of Elks' Charity Fund—Husta, Wyka, Stanton and Rabinowitz Star—New York Jewels at Auditorium Wednesday Night.

A drive for 12 points in the last period gave the Cities Service quintet an American League victory over the Passaic Panthers Monday night at the Municipal Auditorium, 31-21, and instilled more confidence in the Gasolliers for their regular Wednesday game against the New York Jewels.

Proceeds of last night's court war went to the charity fund of Kingston at White Eagle Hall tonight at 8 Elks, and after the box office closed, 10 o'clock. The game will be played by the Elks' Ruler Joseph Dineen, under amateur rules.

There will be two preliminary faro work of his organization. The games, at 8 o'clock Deppy Mar-attendance was good despite rainy, thin Cornell-Roscoe team will meet the Cornwall Merchants. The visitors have broken even in two games with the Port Ewen Sioux this season and are expected to give the fire boys some stiff opposition.

At 7 o'clock a girls' team from Cornwall, said to be one of the best girls' teams in that section, will meet the A. A. Girls of Kingston. The A. A. lineup will include Tremper, Dewitt, Stahl, Millett and Zesh, with Carro, Butler, Henderson and Longendyke in reserve.

Enlivened by the presence of the closing chapter to make up his total of 12, highest individual score of the game, five fields and two fouls went toward his full score. Phil Rabinowitz made eight for the Passaic club on three from scrimmage and two free ones. Phil tied the score three times in the second period with two deuces and a foul, once in the last frame.

Renny Borgmann, ex-Kingston star, saw action for Passaic in the last three minutes of play, relieving Ben Selzer, who like the rest of the Panthers showed signs of strain in the third period, when Kingston began to press. The locals displayed the wallop they need to win when Stanton relieved Shimek and added the dash necessary for the passing attack.

Wyka Plays Good Ball
Kingston's eight points in the first period came with Husta's deuce and foul, a two pointer by Shimek and a field and free one by Al Wyka, who gave a good account of himself in making seven markers and played sterling ball on the defensive. For Passaic Selzer and Saunders tallied from scrimmage and Kellett and Rabinowitz from the complimentary stripe.

During the second period, which terminated 19-17, Kingston leading by the two point margin, each club scored 11 points. Kingston's tally was built on Husta's two fields and a foul, deuces by Kintzing and Hearn, and free ones by Shimek and Wyka. Hearn's shot was a neat push-up in the last two minutes of play and broke a 17-17 tie.

Rabinowitz Ties Score
Passaic's 11 was the total of fields by Bass, Selzer, Kellett and two deuces and a foul by Rabinowitz, who dropped his scrimmage shot in from long range, tying the score with both of them and with his complimentary.

Only two fields were added by the Panthers in the third period, one by Rabinowitz, who tied the tally at 19-all at the beginning and another by Kellett. Husta's two from the floor, Stanton's field and two fouls, Wyka's two pointer and one from the short stripe and Kintzing's converted heave made up the Kingston score.

MIDDLETOWN SCORE TEN POINTS IN LAST TWO MINUTES OF PLAY
Middletown High School played at Woodbridge Saturday night and won 12 to 20. Ten of Middletown's points were made in a spectacular finish during the last two minutes of play.

Woodbridge held the Middletown 11 to 11 at the half. At the three quarter point Middletown led 21 to 17, when Woodbridge got busy and brought the score up to 20 to 22.

Battery A and Home Leaders To Clash at White Eagle Tonight

A game has been arranged between the Home Leaders and Battery A. The two teams will meet at the White Eagle Hall tonight at 8 Elks, and after the box office closed, 10 o'clock. The game will be played by the Elks' Ruler Joseph Dineen, under amateur rules.

There will be two preliminary faro work of his organization. The games, at 8 o'clock Deppy Mar-attendance was good despite rainy, thin Cornell-Roscoe team will meet the Cornwall Merchants. The visitors have broken even in two games with the Port Ewen Sioux this season and are expected to give the fire boys some stiff opposition.

At 7 o'clock a girls' team from Cornwall, said to be one of the best girls' teams in that section, will meet the A. A. Girls of Kingston. The A. A. lineup will include Tremper, Dewitt, Stahl, Millett and Zesh, with Carro, Butler, Henderson and Longendyke in reserve.

Enlivened by the presence of the closing chapter to make up his total of 12, highest individual score of the game, five fields and two fouls went toward his full score. Phil Rabinowitz made eight for the Passaic club on three from scrimmage and two free ones. Phil tied the score three times in the second period with two deuces and a foul, once in the last frame.

Renny Borgmann, ex-Kingston star, saw action for Passaic in the last three minutes of play, relieving Ben Selzer, who like the rest of the Panthers showed signs of strain in the third period, when Kingston began to press. The locals displayed the wallop they need to win when Stanton relieved Shimek and added the dash necessary for the passing attack.

Wyka Plays Good Ball
Kingston's eight points in the first period came with Husta's deuce and foul, a two pointer by Shimek and a field and free one by Al Wyka, who gave a good account of himself in making seven markers and played sterling ball on the defensive. For Passaic Selzer and Saunders tallied from scrimmage and Kellett and Rabinowitz from the complimentary stripe.

During the second period, which terminated 19-17, Kingston leading by the two point margin, each club scored 11 points. Kingston's tally was built on Husta's two fields and a foul, deuces by Kintzing and Hearn, and free ones by Shimek and Wyka. Hearn's shot was a neat push-up in the last two minutes of play and broke a 17-17 tie.

Rabinowitz Ties Score
Passaic's 11 was the total of fields by Bass, Selzer, Kellett and two deuces and a foul by Rabinowitz, who dropped his scrimmage shot in from long range, tying the score with both of them and with his complimentary.

Only two fields were added by the Panthers in the third period, one by Rabinowitz, who tied the tally at 19-all at the beginning and another by Kellett. Husta's two from the floor, Stanton's field and two fouls, Wyka's two pointer and one from the short stripe and Kintzing's converted heave made up the Kingston score.

Hurdles 'Hope'

—By Pap

Sport Slants

Eastern track enthusiasts who were mourning the passing of Percy Beard from the ranks of competing hurdlers have taken Smilin' Sam Allen, the slim ace of Oklahoma Baptist University, who holds the National Collegiate A. A. high hurdles championship, to their hearts. In his indoor debut Allen equalled the world record of 7.5 seconds for the 66-yard dash over five hurdles.

Last summer, at the Princeton invitation meet in Palmer Stadium, Allen defeated a field of crack hurdlers, his time being announced as 14.3. His misfortune was in the fact that the wrong timers held the watches. He was caught by the official timers in 14.4, 14.7 and 14.1, and by two reserve timers in 14.1, that being a world record. Naturally, he was given the "medium" time.

Amos Ahead Stylist
Allen's style of hurdling, with both arms extended forward when clearing the obstacle, has caused considerable discussion. It is not exactly orthodox, but it is his natural style and, on the strength of his record to date, successful as far as he is concerned.

He is a natural athlete. Although there was a time—his junior year in high school—when he was keenly interested in glee club work and giving no thought whatever to athletics. He was pressed into service on the cinder paths one afternoon when the school conducted an interclass meet. His class was without an entry in the high hurdles and despite his vigorous protests that he had never so much as donned a track shoe in his life, he found himself lined up at the start with the other would-be hurdlers. To the complete surprise of everyone, including himself, he kept interest in the sport after that and developed rapidly, winning the state championship the following year. He played baseball and football in his senior year at high school but gave those sports up when he went to college—to concentrate on hurdling.

Towns Tops Timbers

Another promising young hurdler made his indoor debut on eastern board tracks this winter. He is Forrest (Spec) Towns, the University of Georgia's Southeastern conference high hurdles champion. Towns scored quite an upset in the Sugar Bowl meet in New Orleans, when he defeated Sam Allen, Johnnie Morris and Al Moreau in the 120-yard hurdles.

Towns' rise in the hurdling field has been meteoric. He never competed in high school. He tried out for the high jump in his freshman year at Georgia but showed little aptitude for that branch of the sport. Coach Weems Baskin, a great hurdler in his competitive days, tried the lanky youngster over the sticks. Within six months Towns was a proved wonder. He swept through his sophomore campaign in the south last year without a defeat, winning the southeastern conference title.

Towns, called Spec because he is amply freckled, shows the fine hand of Baskin's coaching. He is sure-fire Olympic timber, so keep an eye on him.

Johnson May Throw Dollar Across Potomac

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—Representative Sol Bloom of New York offered 20 to 1 odds today that Walter Johnson will not succeed in throwing a silver dollar across the Happpahannock river on the 20th anniversary of George Washington's birthday Saturday.

But up on his Germantown, Maryland, farm, Johnson, former speed-ball king of big league baseball, began practicing with a dollar against his barn door.

"Maybe I can't throw that far," he drawled, "but there's one thing certain—if George Washington did it, I can."

Bloom, who is director of the George Washington bicentennial commission, flew into a high dudgeon over the "myth" that the first president performed the feat.

"Why, it's preposterous," he said, "it's ridiculous. Not only is it physically impossible, but if you boil down the fable, you'll find that Washington was about 19 years old when the miracle was supposed to have happened."

In accepting the invitation of Fredericksburg, Virginia, officials, the former hurler said he made it conditional on two points:

1. Someone (not Johnson) must furnish the dollar.
2. He won't put on a colonial costume.

Jock "Knocker Out" McAvoy Drops Smith

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Jock McAvoy, an English boxer who by his own admission has turned "knocker out," is living up to his name.

He coined that word after he put Hajo Riske, claimant to the world heavyweight championship, down and out in the first round several weeks ago. Last night he lived up to it by putting away Jim Smith of Philadelphia in 2:22 of the second round of a bout scheduled for ten.

Smith, who weighed only 159 1/2, as compared to McAvoy's 171, started off fast in the first round and do lighted a cross of 3,000 by driving the British middle and light heavy weight champion under the chin with two fisted volleys.

Olympic Hopes To Be Aired In Mile-High Denver During National Basketball Tourney

By LOUDON KELLY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Denver, (AP)—Mile-high Denver may be an embarkation point for Berlin and the Olympic games for a handful of basketball players who are "tops" in their trade.

A stopover in New York for the final Olympic trials in April will be necessary, of course.

Teams entering the National A. A. U. tournament here, March 15-21, will nibble at a double lure—the championship in basketball's "world series" and the chance to try out for Uncle Sam's Olympic cage team.

The champion and runner-up of the tournament will earn the right to play in the Olympic trials in New York, April 3-6, along with five teams from the National Collegiate A. A. tournament and one quintet from the Y. M. C. A. meet.

Fourteen To Olympics.
Not more than eight of the 12 players on the Olympic squad may be selected from the team winning the New York tourney, nor more than five from the runner-up association. One player will be chosen from among the remaining eight.

A. A. U. officials here wonder what effect the various district collegiate and Y. M. C. A. elimination tournaments with the Olympic trials as their goal will have on the national meet to be held here for the second year in succession.

Willard N. Greim, Rocky Mountain A. A. U. secretary, said he does not expect quite as many college teams as in former years, and predicting the game of the top flight campus teams of the East and Midwest.

"I think these teams will choose to enter their district college meets," he said.

There will be deathly at the three Dutch Church Wednesday night when the Men's Club of the church will play the men of Trinity Lutheran.

The Kendalls bowed out in the preliminary basketball game at the Auditorium Monday night with a defeat chalked up against them, their opponents, the Newburgh DuPonts, having proven themselves superior by the slim margin of two points. Final score of the game was 19-17.

Two fields by Charlie Brubaker turned the tide for the Newburgh team with only one minute left to play. A shot from the side and another from the coffin corner boosted the DuPont score from 15 to 19, after Bobby Cullum and Chipe Rhymer had come through for Kendalls boosting their tally from 11 to 17. Rhymer made two fields and Cullum one deuce to put the Oilers in the van, but then Brubaker cut loose and spoiled it.

Last night's victory put the Oilers on even standing, each having won a game. The "rubber" will be played at the Auditorium on March 4. The boxscore:

After Richest Turf Prize in the World

Los Angeles, Feb. 18 (AP)—Victory in the Santa Anita Derby last week has earned He Did, son of Victorian, Dina Did, a shot at the richest turf prize in the world.

Tommy Taylor, trainer for Mrs. Silas U. Mason's horse, said that He Did, lightly-weighted at 100 pounds, would be sent against the crack field that will compete in the $100,000 added Santa Anita handicap Saturday.

He Did, who has won $26,000 to date, probably will be the only three-year-old in the race. He raced in the derby last week for the express purpose of setting a killing early pace. In the belief his stablemate, Victorian, would come on in the stretch to win.

He Did set the pace, but when Jockey Wayne Wright looked back in the stretch, expecting to see Victorian at his heels, he saw Valiant Fox. There was nothing to do but use the whip. Wright used the whip and He Did flashed across the wire a nose ahead of Valiant Fox.

Saturday's climax to the California winter racing season probably will attract 50,000 persons, and most of them will be on hand partly because they like horse racing and partly because they want to learn if the prime favorite, Discovery, is as great a horse as everybody seems to think he is.

Discovery has been assigned to top weight of 120 pounds and is the favorite, regardless of the weather.

There's trouble in various places about teachers taping the mouths of talkative pupils. That sort of thing should only be done to adults.

BAER WANTS TO TRY COMEBACK

Looking at a picture of Joe Louis and possibly remembering the beating he took from him, Max Baer is shown at Oakland, Calif., as he pondered the advisability of a comeback attempt. He has announced he'll try but Ansel Hoffman, his manager, seems to doubt it. (Associated Press Photo)

With His Wife As Trainer,
Quarles Seeks Fistic Fame

Richmond, Va. (AP)—The firm of Quarles and Company has returned to the fistic wars.

That means that Normont Quarles is on the road, to scale the lightweight championship heights, with his attractive wife, Louise, as inspiration and a training companion.
Mrs. Quarles likes nothing better than to jog along mountain roads with Normont or to be of help in the numerous other ways she finds.

Inspired by Dempsey.
Normont believes that before long he will be sitting on the lightweight throne and a recent 10-round decision over Freddie Miller, the N. B.
A.'s featherweight champion, was the necessary tonic to spur him on.

The youngster's fistic career has extended over a long trail from the time when, as a lad of 14, he watched Jack Dempsey in training near his North Carolina home. A frail youth, then, he decided to be a fighter someday and under the direction of John Loy he became a great college prospect when he entered the University of North Carolina.

He showed promise as a freshman boxer, and as a varsity performer he stamped himself as one of the greatest college boxers ever produced. His victories over Bobby Goldstein, University of Virginia, Lightweight, were his most notable achievements.

He Was Too Good.
He won the Southern Conference championship two years straight without taking part in the finals.
Coaches of rival teams in many cases forfeited rather than send their lightweight into battle against the dynamite fists of the Tar Heel Terror. Opponents who did climb into the ring with him usually were carried out before the end of the first round.

In his senior year, Quarles quit college boxing and, although retaining his amateur ranking, had an opportunity to fight some first-class scrappers.

Quarles recently was taken over by Chris Dundee, who also handles Ken Overlin, fifth ranking middleweight.

Coast Ski Boom Boosts
Profits of Boy Artisan

Seattle (AP)—Skiing, a comparatively new sport in the Pacific Northwest, has brought a thriving business to the basement-workshop of 17-year-old Elton Leith of Seattle. He has so much work he keeps his father, mother and three pals busy.

At the age of 14, Elton made himself a pair of ski-poles. Youngsters in his neighborhood wanted; some and he made more.

During the national ski winter-ment at Mount Rainier last winter, a coach of an eastern college ski team saw some of the poles and liked them. He prevailed upon an eastern sporting goods store to order 500 pairs.

Since then Elton's business has grown by leaps and bounds. He buys thousands of rough poles of timber from the forest and rattle-naps from Singapore for the "snow rings." He's a little, big, business man now.

Jerry Naimy, captain of the Washington State College rifle team, set record on the school's rifle range recently when he scored 99 out of a possible 100 from a standing position. His coach, Capt. S. F. Coffin, said probably not 10 men in the United States could score such a high percentage from a standing position.

Alligerville, Feb. 15.—The villagers have been very busy since the snow of Thursday opening their paths and driveways and cleaning the roofs of buildings. All are wondering what they will do with the snow if there comes another fall.
The county road cleaner takes care of the main roads.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Evans of Delmar were guests at the Evans home on Sunday.

There were no church services Sunday. The church was not opened on account of the deep snow.

Earle Schoonmaker, welfare administrator of this town, has had a telephone installed in his residence.
The February meeting of the Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Trowbridge. It was well attended and all enjoyed a pleasant afternoon.

School was closed Thursday on account of the severe storm.

Joseph Evans may be seen nearly every afternoon exercising his handsome white horse hitched to a sleigh with his musical bells. The children and older ones also enjoy the ride he gives them.

Mrs. Mary Schoonmaker has returned after spending several months with her children at Jamaica, L. I.
Abraham Braverman of New York city spent several days at his summer home in this place last week.
All are glad to know that Mrs.
Friend Bush of the clinic is improving at a hospital in Kingston. She has had several blood transfusions.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kimes visited Mrs. Kimes' uncle, George Van Wagoner, at a Kingston hospital Monday. They report him improving.

Elks Entertain Teams
After Charity Contest

After the game for their charity fund at the Municipal Auditorium Monday night, the Kingston Elks were hosts to the Cities Service team and the Passaic Panthers in their club rooms on Fair street.

A most enjoyable time was had by both ball teams, who assured the Elks it was a pleasure and honor to play for so worthy a cause as that to which the proceeds of the game went.

Although no definite amount was announced, Exalted Ruler Joseph Disch expressed himself as more than satisfied with what was realized on the contest.

Last night's rainy weather and bad walking, kept a number away from the game although they had tickets for it, and their support in the way of pecuniary patronage helped to swell the fund although they could not be on hand to add to the crowd.

Prior to the game, Exalted Ruler Disch addressed the assemblage of fans as follows:

Speaking for the members of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, I wish to publicly thank "Pop" Morgenweck for playing this basketball game tonight for the benefit of the Elks' Charity Fund. Manager Morgenweck has donated the services of his Cities Service team and the entire proceeds. We appreciate his kindness and the cooperation of the men on the team.

I thank the regular weekly reserve seat holders for again taking the irregular seats for this charity game, also the school children. I thank everyone for coming to this game tonight. Your patronage, indeed, plays a big part in helping us to carry on our charitable work.

To show our appreciation the Elks are giving a dance at the Elks' Club after this game. We invite you all to come up to the club on Fair street. There we will try to entertain you.

Kingston Lodge of Elks is very happy to know that you endorse our charitable work. You have so willingly demonstrated that here tonight by attending this charity game.

WILE AUTO RACE TRACK
PLANNED FOR MINNEOLA
New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Plans have been formulated for an enclosed four-mile automobile racing course to be built at Roswell Field, Minneola.

Captain Eddie Rickentacker, famous war ace and chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile Association, announced last night that two races of 100 or 150 miles each would be staged at the course each summer.

The first race is scheduled for June 27. Work on the new course was to begin as soon as weather permitted.

The contest board, in its annual meeting, also looked from 1936 to 1937 per mile, the size of purses in national championship automobile races and eliminated the use of fidel mechanics on dirt tracks.

In the heyday of ancient Rome when a torn took the place of a real dinner, the Romans knew a vast deal more about the food they ate than the so-called modern "connoissieurs" do about the food today. For instance, a Roman realized the dietary importance of eating an apple at every meal. He did not know, of course, about roughage and vitamins, but he did know that, when he ate apples at his meals, he always felt better, so he ate apples.

Annual Report of Central Hudson

Rate reductions of approximately $285,000 annually have been given users of gas and electricity of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, according to the annual report of the company submitted yesterday by John L. Winkie, chairman of the board, and Ernest R. Acker, president. "In spite of rate reductions in 1934 and during this year, the revenues of the company for 1935 showed an increase of 2.3 per cent," the report states, but explains that this increase is partly offset by increased operating expenses and state and local taxes. The operating income of the company for the year showed a small improvement over that of last year. During the year the company added about 200 miles of rural extensions to the system. "The immediate importance of this construction program is indicated by the fact that it involves a total expenditure of about $800,000, approximately 50 per cent of which is expended locally for material, labor and services," the report says in commenting on the proposed program for extension of rural electrification, which when completed will bring this service to 88 per cent of the farms served by the company's area, and to 96 per cent of the total number of rural residents. The financial statement of the company showed that the surplus December 31, 1935, was $3,423,327.71. Income from electric, gas and steam operations for the year, represented in sales to customers for these services, was $6,620,562.67.

RIVER CRAFT BATTERED AS ICE JAM BREAKS

Great blocks of ice hammered these pleasure craft onto the banks of the Ohio river at Louisville as rain and thaw broke the ice jam, sending flocks careening down the river. The craft had been pulled to the banks by careful owners but the ice battered them, despite precautions, causing wide damage. (Associated Press Photo)

Sears, Roebuck Jubilee Program

Nine million five hundred thousand dollars will be spent in the newspapers of the United States in 1936 by Sears, Roebuck and Co., according to an announcement concerning the firm's Golden Jubilee program, issued today by General R. E. Wood, president of the company. The jubilee program will be the most comprehensive promotional and merchandising demonstration in Sears' history and, to reach its goal, would involve:

An increase of about $60,000,000 in the company's merchandise purchases. An increase of about $7,000,000 in the company's payroll expenditures. "This program for 1936 is based on a belief in the continuation of the business revival this year and in the maintenance of improved farm condition," General Wood declared.

The Sears newspaper advertising campaign will be spread among 881 newspapers located in 44 states. The statement showed that the big merchandising firm will make its 1936 merchandise purchases from 6,000 industries located in 1,600 cities and towns, that raw materials used in the merchandise will come from all 48 states and that all but a fraction of one per cent of the company's total merchandise purchases will come from within the United States.

The Sears Jubilee celebration which will run through the entire year of 1936 will revolve around a long list of newly developed merchandise created by the company's sources working in collaboration with its merchandising organization. The plan underlying the celebration of the Golden Jubilee by Sears, Roebuck and Co., is fundamentally a merchandising plan, declared a statement received by Leonard H. Beers, manager of the local Sears store, from Frank M. Judson, retail merchandise manager of the firm.

Troy Hotel Returns To American Chain

Hendrick Hudson Hotel at Troy which was opened as a member of the American Hotel System chain but which under a provision of its charter reverted eight years later to local management, has again voted to return to the American Hotel chain. Directors and stockholders voted 3460 to 1944 to return to the chain system. Following the vote in a battle of proxies the directors announced they would meet directly and vote on whether to merge with the American Hotel System, or remain under a new, but local management. Final action as to what will be done rests with the directors despite the vote of the stockholders.

The hotel was built by the American Hotel System with Troy capital and opened in 1926 but in 1934 was taken over by a local group and operated as a Community Hotel Corporation.

The Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston was erected under the same plan and two years ago, by provision of the agreement between the local stockholders and the American Hotel management, the stockholders took over the hotel but continued to leave the active management with the corporation with R. R. Gross as manager. The last annual report showed the Governor Clinton Hotel to be on the upturn, with earnings better in 1935 than in 1934. A plan has been advanced for paying reduced earnings on the mortgage bonds issued at the time the new addition was built and a fund is now on hand from which payment may be made if the plan is approved by the mortgage bondholders who have been circulating during the past month. All cars were stock models. The Sunoco products were purchased at a regular Sunoco station and shipped in sealed containers to the mammoth refrigeration at South Bend, Ind. One by one, cars were placed in the cold room, refrigerated, and started without trials or rehearsals. No tricks—no priming—nothing added to the cars but anti-freeze. Supervised by Western Union observer, timers with stop watches checked the elapsed time between the push on the starter and the firing of the motor.
